Weekly E-Newsbrief

November 24, 2004

The E-Newsbrief of the National Clearinghouse is a free weekly newsletter focusing on new developments in the world of worker health and safety. Each issue provides summaries of the latest worker health and safety news from newspapers, magazines, journals, government reports, and the Web, along with links to the original documents. Also featured each week are updates from government agencies that handle hazmat and worker safety issues such as DOE, EPA, OSHA and others.

Subscribing to the National Clearinghouse Newsbrief is the best way to stay on top of the worker health and safety news.

Are we prepared? PACE International Reveals Gaps in Facilities' Preparedness to Respond to Terrorist Attacks

Facilities that have been identified as potentially attractive targets for a terrorist attack due to the presence of large volumes of hazardous materials have not done an adequate job of preventing and preparing for such an event. These are the findings of a survey conducted by the Paper, Allied-Industrial, Chemical & Energy Workers (PACE) International Union of its local unions in the chemical, paper, oil refining and other industries.
