3/29/07 10:45 am Workshop Block 1

1. Putting POWER in your power point presentation (Mid-West – John Hanson) Tracks: Advanced Training Technologies/ Instructor Development

Through the use of Power Point, a presenter strives to deliver information in the most effective, concise, and entertaining way possible. Integrating videos, news clips, internet information, web pages, clipart, customized photos, sound and music are just a few ways to make a Power Point topic come alive for your audience. This session will allow participants to engage in hands-on activities using laptop computers, development software, along with the ability to experience the use of live Power Point in distance learning applications. The goal is to increase the awareness of how a presentation (AND the presenter) can become a more effective tool for learning. Time will be allowed for you to share neat things you've done in Power Point.
