

The program so aptly named “New Directions” has had an impact in the workplace that may surpass that of any law passed to date. It has put knowledge in the hands of those who can best use it. The strength of the program lies in the long overdue recognition that the key to solving problems is public education. People are asking questions; “New Directions” is helping to supply the answers. The working population of this nation and others acknowledge and applaud your dedication to this program and the needs it fills. The staff people of the various “New Directions” programs has been listening to the praise for over two years now. We thought it was time you heard it. The best we can say is, “Thank you; you were right!”
