Why are we (still) talking about lead?

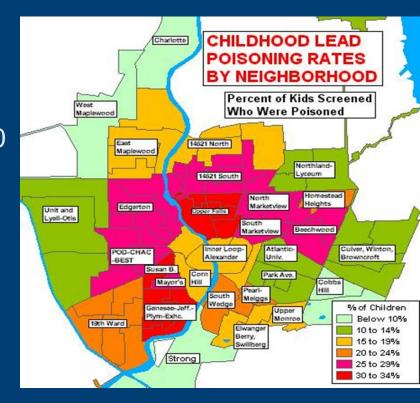

Lead in pre-1978 housing remains the largest source of children's exposure and the biggest threat to kids' environmental health

Coalition to Prevent Lead Poisoning

- Formed in 2000
- Membership: educators, doctors, community groups
- Goal: eliminate lead poisoning by 2010
- Systems change = local law on lead in housing
- Worked with stakeholders to identify a "Rochester-appropriate" solution (city, community groups, landlords, health dept., national groups, other cities)
- Passed local law in 2005

Rochester's Lead Law (2005)

- Added lead to existing proactive rental inspections
- Visual + dust inspection of pre-1978 units by city staff
- If fails, owner must fix and pay for private clearance
- Lead-safety trained owners may fix hazards
- Re-inspection every 3 6 years

Lead poisoning declined 2.4 times faster in Rochester than in the rest of New York (Kennedy et al. 2014)

So...who is the target of implementation?

- City leadership
- Community/county health dept. partners
- City inspectors
- Landlords
- Renters

What is the 'thing' they must do?

- City leadership
 - Pass law, provide resources
- Community/county health dept. partners
 - Keep lead on agenda, coordinate, evaluate
- City inspectors/inspection department
 - Training, prioritize lead, enforcement
- Landlords
 - Maintenance/repairs, get inspection, inform renters
- Renters
 - Look for lead, "complain" if see hazard, clean

Beyond Rochester...

Rochester is a national model for primary prevention...how can we can best inform other cities' implementation?

Lessons Learned

- What is your lead problem?
- Describe your rental housing market?
- What are your resources?
- What is your goal?
- Whom can you work with?
- What tools are available?
- How will you know if it's working?
